Dear Mr Shinoda,

I was thrilled to see the opening position as an Intern in your studio, which I recently spotted on Indeed. I have great respect for Hackney Road Studios and its part on recording a good number of my favourite bands, in particular Spiritualized.

I'm a second-year student of Audio Production at Sae London, and I'm looking for an internship to gain the experience that I cannot get in a classroom. I've been trained to record in professional studios as well as mixing and producing with both Pro Tools and Ableton.

I believe that my dedication and technical minded approach to work, combined with great attention to detail, make me an ideal candidate for this position. As you will see from my accompanying resume, I have management experience and exceptional problem-solving skills. I am a very hard worker and eager to learn. I possess the ability to adapt to new systems quickly, and I am confident that I can be of help to you in a professional way.

Working in a recording studio and being part in the creation of great music is an achievement I have always aspired to. With the skills I have learned from the various projects and my positive approach, I believe I would be an asset for Hackney Road Studios

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Mariangela Pagano
